REPORT OF STUDENT SELF ANALYSIS SURVEY

Every year a self analysis form is circulated among the students to gauge the student profile so that the teachers and mentees can work with the students to facilitate them in doing their best in academics as well as in life.

This year the Pandemic threw new challenges the survey was conducted online. The self analysis profile has questions to analyse the student progression by looking at their entry level, whether they are from vernacular or English medium so instructions can be modified accordingly, family structure of the student to see if they are first generation learners, hobbies to gauge their temperament and engage them effectively, food habits to suggest healthy diet, role models if any to inculcate proper thought process, reading habits so new books can be suggested. When asked whether they would like to do a online course 64.3% responded positively and thus were given opportunities to pursue online courses through COURSERA and NPTEL

This self analysis of students has helped students in many ways to think inwards and also for teachers to realise that every student is unique and even though it is difficult some places students need a personalised approach.
